In conjunction with Pacific Standard Time's upcoming Performance and Public Art Festival, Margo Leavin Gallery is pleased to announce The Particles (of White Naugahyde), a three-act play written by William Leavitt to be performed at Margo Leavin Gallery's Hilldale Avenue building, one block east of the Robertson Boulevard gallery.

The Particles (of White Naugahyde) was written by Leavitt in 1979 in response to a lecture by NASA officials promoting space colonies, which was given at the Contemporary Art Museum in Houston, where Leavitt was participating in the exhibition American Narrative/Story Art, 1967-1977.

Margo Leavin Gallery's Hilldale building is located at 817 Hilldale Avenue in Los Angeles.
